Victoria Falls, 1st choice for  holiday

Victoria Falls is one of two World Heritage Sites on the Zambezi River. The Zambezi River flows broad and placid to brink of a 1700m wide basalt lip before taking a 100 metre headlong plunge into the thunderous, frothy chasm of the Bakota Gorge below. It's the world largest sheet of falling water. The locals call it Mosi oa Tunya (the smoke that thunders ).

Once the river has taken its plunge, things change. The eyes will have had their share, fun follows. For those with the courage, the rapids immediately downstream offer some of the most terrifying white water rafting and river boating for the novice or those with more experience, anywhere in the  word – the Colorado pales by comparison.

Source: http //www.afrizim.com/ places/ Victoria falls/Victoria falls.asp

| 269Size and flows rate of Victoria Falls | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Parameters | Victoria Falls | | Niagara Falls | | Iguaza | |
| Height in meters and feet | 108m | 360ft | 51m | 167ft | 64-82m | 210-269 |
| Width in meter of feet | 1,708m | 5,607ft | 1,203m | 3,947ft | 2,700m | 8,858ft |
| Mean monthly flow: Max | 3.000 | 105,944 | | | | |
| Height record flow | 12,800 | 452,000 | 6,800 | 240,000 | 45,700 | 1,614,000 |
| | | | | | | |

Our Recommended Tours

The wildest one day white water rafting trip on earth.

The second highest bungee jump on the planet (a full 8 seconds worth!)

River boating , skydiving, micro-light flips, jet boating, elephant back safaris, canoe trail, kayaking walk trails, fishing, walking with lions, big five safaris…you name it.

And whether you do it on the Zambian or the Zimbabwean side, theres no shortage of 5* hotel to bed/breakfasts to back packers lodges.